

The purpose of this manual is to define Army pre-positioned land in terms of process, structure, organization, and operations from the strategic through tactical levels. This manual serves as an azimuth to align training, planning, and execution for the Army and its role in power projection doctrine. It will define specific existing organizations, systems, equipment, and procedures necessary to accomplish Army pre-positioned land operations. In the absence of existing systems and procedures, this manual offers solutions.
