

RAISING ROBOTS-A Human Canvas is a social workers journal sharing a collection of real case studies about our nations precious child victims and their individual stories. It is an advocacy statement, written by an educator, turned social worker, turned full time child advocate. It is a personal account of children who entered the foster care system and their family stories. It was written and is shared in hopes of spreading awareness of the growing problem in our present day society. It is an urgent calling of everyone to be aware and to react when a child is in need. In essence, it is a call to heroism. Are you up for the challenge?
