

The fascinating history of the SS Jeremiah OBrien, one of two remaining Liberty ships of the 2,710 that were built during World War II. This vessel was at the D-Day landings and made eleven shuttle crossings from England to the beaches of Normandy. Fifty years later she returned with a volunteer crew for the 50th Anniversary of D-Day, the only ship of the original 5,000 vessel armada to return. She was featured in around-the-world television coverage of this event and was the centerpiece of commemoration ceremonies in England and France. Today the SS Jeremiah OBrien is an operating museum ship and periodically cruises San Francisco Bay. The author has given her complete history in an easy to read and well-written book
