

Throughout history, some of our best-loved stories have been of people and their companion animals. Lassie, Rin Tin Tin, and Old Yellar are just a few of the many examples of tales that made us laugh, cry and read them over and over again. Quite recently, we have been witness to not only the unfailing friendship these animals give to us but the truly heroic nature of these beings. Search and rescue dogs who gave their lives to find victims of the 911 tragedy, golden retrievers who were brought in to give comfort to a grieving community shocked by the shooting deaths of small children in Connecticut and the animals who somehow survived the fury of Hurricane Katrina. All of these events speak to the special nature of our companion animals. These are my personal stories of my friends, heroes and sources of comfort. May your life be blessed with a special friend of your own.

It is impossible to physically touch anyone's soul in the corporeal state. However, one Yes and for an Empathic person like me, it was a horrible experience.
