

Excerpt from The Witness of the World to Christ
In venturing to put forth the following thoughts a warning has been forcibly borne in upon the writers mind, which has been made familiar in the words of the Laureate: -Thou pratest here where thou art least; This faith hath many a purer priest, And many an abler voice than thou. And he would ask his readers to believe that he does not profess to do more than direct attention to some considerations which may serve to throw a little light on a subject of which the difficulties and the vastness are fully realised.
